

CIVIS Media Prize 2019 – 14 programmes awarded in Berlin

Berlin – Europe’s most important media prize for integration and cultural diversity was awarded on Thursday evening at a celebratory TV gala in the German Foreign Office in Berlin in front of around 400 invited guests. Fourteen programmes from the areas of film, television, radio and internet received prizes. A total of 767 programmes from 22 EU states and Switzerland took part in the competition.

Pinar Atalay, Siham El-Maimouni, Chernob Jobatey and Reiner Reitsamer comprised the team presenting the CIVIS Media Prize 2019. The awarding of the television prize will be broadcast by ARD/Das Erste and on several European television channels (see broadcast dates). German President Frank-Walter Steinmeier, the President of the European Parliament Antonio Tajani, and German Foreign Minister Heiko Maas are the patrons of the CIVIS Media Prize 2019.

Prominent guests at the CIVIS TV gala:

Minister of State Annette Widmann-Mauz and Minister of State Michelle Müntefering took part in the awards ceremony – as well as the Chair of the CIVIS Board of Trustees, WDR General Director Tom Buhrow, ORF General Director Alexander Wrabetz, the general directors Lutz Marmor (NDR) and Stefan Raue (Deutschlandradio), Andreas Freudenberg (Freudenberg Stiftung), the DFB Integration Representative Cacau, Pinar Atalay (ARD-Tagesthemen), Chernob Jobatey (ZDF), Jörg Schönenborn (WDR), Igor Bergant (RTV Slovenia), Roger de Weck, Bakel Walden (SRG SSR), Miroslav Nemec.
